Dear Doodle Test:

Thank you for your application to the Department of Mental Health and the MHS in Mental Health at the Bloomberg School of Public Health. The Admissions Committee carefully reviewed and discussed your application, but unfortunately, we are unable to offer you a position in our incoming doctoral class.

We are encouraged by the number of applicants interested in the field of public mental health. Unfortunately, our resources and faculty capacity restrict the number of applications we can admit each year. As a result, we must turn away motivated and highly qualified people who are capable of making important contributions to this field and truly hope that you will nonetheless forge a way to making an impact in public mental health.

We wish you continued success in your academic and research career.

Sincerely,

M. Daniele Fallin, PhD
Sylvia and Harold Halpert Professor and Chair
Director, Wendy Klag Center for Autism and Developmental Disabilities
Department of Mental Health
